Raman Power Technologies Acquires Wellpoint; Launches Well.Me to Pioneer AI-Driven Digital Health

LONDON, 25th August 2025 – Raman Power Technologies (trading as Gather Capture), a leader in critical power and IT infrastructure, today announced the acquisition of key assets from the former Wellpoint Group through its newly formed health subsidiary, Wellpoint Health Limited (WHL). The combined products and services will be rebranded under the name Well.Me, marking the start of a new era in data-driven digital healthcare.

This strategic move unites Wellpoint's industry-leading health kiosks and digital platforms with Raman Power's deep technical expertise and customer-first approach. The synergy is designed to accelerate innovation in precision health, leveraging AI and robust IT infrastructure.

A Foundation of Technical Excellence and Strategic Vision

Gather Capture, founded by industry veteran Surendra Patel, specialises in end-to-end power and IT management solutions for data centre's, built on a model of true partnership. The company delivers:

- Technical expertise – Deep knowledge of critical infrastructure and IT challenges
- Strategic advisory – Tailored guidance to optimise long-term success
- End-to-end support – Ensuring seamless implementation and sustained performance

This same commitment to excellence and partnership will now be applied to advance the Well.Me digital health ecosystem.

The Well.Me Roadmap: Intelligent, Integrated, and Impactful

Under Surendra's leadership, Well.Me will enhance its digital health platforms through:

- Strategic Investment – Scaling AI-driven tools and advanced analytics to enable smarter healthcare delivery
- Seamless Integration – Leveraging cross-industry IT expertise to strengthen reliability and scalability across health systems

- Customer-Centric Innovation – Bringing Raman Power’s proven consultative approach to healthcare, ensuring solutions are innovative, practical, and provider-focused

Leadership Perspective

Surendra Patel, founder and CEO of Raman Power Technologies, commented:

“Wellpoint’s mission to transform healthcare access aligns perfectly with our purpose: solving critical challenges through technology and partnership. Just as we’ve redefined support in IT infrastructure, we will now empower healthcare providers with intelligent, sustainable solutions that deliver measurable improvements in patient care and operational efficiency.”

Commitment to Clients: Continuity and Growth

Existing Wellpoint clients will experience uninterrupted service, with access to expanded technical resources and a reinforced focus on delivering tangible outcomes. To ensure continuity, Wellpoint Health Limited has retained key leadership, including former Wellpoint Group CEO Keith Lewis, who will serve as Director of Client Acquisition and as a Non-Executive Director.
